DAM GONE, 70,000,000 CUBIC FEET OF WATER LET LOOSE

PORT COLLINS, Col., June 15--Great alarm is felt over a report that the big dam at Chambers Lake, which has been holding back 70,000,000 cubic feet of water, has gone out and that a wall of water five feet high is rushing down the Cache La Poudre River. It is believed that all people living in the lowlands and near the river banks have escaped, but it is feared that many settlements may have been caught in the flood.
